

Abstract of the Disclosure

A signal ( $S_{\text{normal}}$ ) is provided to a heat element of a temperature sensor, which is recorded as a step response ( $L_{\text{ruh}}, L_{\text{bew}}$ ). From the difference of the step response compared with the reaction adaptively determined with the temperature sensor at zero air circulation, air flow or no air flow is determined.